MARCO COSTA

FRONT-END DEVELOPER

I'm a highly motivated developer looking for my first working experience in the Bologna area. Alternatively, I'll be equally at ease with a fully remote position.

At the moment, my focus is on front-end development: I have experience in building web pages following responsive web design principles and single-page web applications using React.js.
While following the freeCodeCamp curriculum, I'm broadening my knowledge by studying other tools, such as D3.js, XState, and Git.

I am a very analytical person, detail-oriented, and with a passion for problem-solving. I'm also naturally inclined to learn new things, and I can gain operative knowledge of new tools and software in little time.

My previous work experience in food retail and service has allowed me to gain and grow soft skills such as adaptability, time management, and teamwork.
